BURNED!

Dick Coleman Roasted By Infuriated Crowd.

VENGEANCE AT LAST!

Dick Coleman, the murderer of Mrs. James Lashbrooke, was brought here from Covington on the 10:10 this morning.

In less than two minutes after his arrival a determined crowd of at least two thousand had gathered.

On Court street Coleman was taken from his heavily armed guards, consisting of Detective Fitzgerald, Constable Dawson, Deputy Sheriffs Robertson and Mackey, Chief Donovan and the City Police Force.

The infuriated crowd, greatly reinforced, rushed with the Negro up Second street, thence to the South of the L. and N. Roundhouse, where he was tied to a small tree, which swayed as the crowd bore him down, piling brush and logs upon his body, and then the torch was applied.

The writhings of the miserable victim were painful as the flames licked his flesh.

It was fully a half hour before life was extinct.

The only utterance that came from his lips was once when asked what he had to say, he replied, "Take this fire out of my face and I will tell you."

When he said this he had raised himself in a sitting position, but soon his body fell back on the ground and there it remained until he was literally roasted.

It was an awful spectacle, repulsive to the sight of every one, but no more repulsive than the sight which met Mr. Lashbrooke's eyes on that dreadful 5th of October when he found his lovely wife a bloody corpse at the hands of this miserable villain.

THE LEDGER a few days since made mention of the receipt of a copy of "Bruno." The book has a special local interest in that it was written by Mrs. Fred S. Dewey, a former resident of Mayville. She is the daughter of the Rev. J. E. Spillman, D. D., at one time Pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this city, but left her girlhood home some twenty years since. The book shows literary ability, is red-hot, and reflects much credit upon its authors.

NEWSY NOTES FROM NATURE'S GREAT HIGHWAY.

The Tennessee is rising at headwaters.

The D. T. Lane with Kanawha empties passed up.

The W. B. Calderwood passed up with Kanawha empties.

The J. H. McConnell passed up with a tow of Campbell's Creek empties.

Great flocks of wild ducks and geese are seen daily on the river below Louisville.

The Virginia passed up last night for Pittsburgh, she not being compelled to lay up.

Captain William Smiley of Catlettsburg has sold the little steamer Carrie V. to the Chicago Mill and Lumber Company of Cairo. She passed down with a tow of timber for Louisville.

Captain Billy Sandusky, who runs a hotel at Central City, is an old-time boatman. During the war he commanded several large tug steamboats, and can run a hotel now as well as he can a steamboat then.

The Gate City passed down Monday morning with tow of 9 barges of coal. The heaviest drew 5 feet, and it rubbed hard on Guyan Bar. Otherwise but little trouble was experienced. She returned with empties.

Captain J. J. Vandergrift, the well-known banker and oil magnate, spent a good part of his life on the river. He left the river and went into the oil business in the early '80s, and in the latter he was successful.

A 2,000-ton model barge was launched yesterday from the Marine Ways. She is a companion to one launched there some time since, and which has since proved her capacity to carry 1,250,000 feet of lumber. The one to be launched will probably be named for Captain Oscar Barrett's wife—the Minnie Barrett.

The Keystone State on her up-trip was five hours late, having been forced to tie up at Short creek, near Weilsburg, O., on account of a snow storm. It is the first time in the history of the Ohio river, according to Captain James Henderson, that a boat has been forced to tie up owing to a snowstorm. She will pass down tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Captain William Strong, a veteran Cumberland river steamboatman, died in Nashville last week in the eighty-fifth year of his age. In his prime he was one of the leading steamboatmen on the Cumberland river, and had commanded at times nearly every large steamer of ante-bellum days running on that stream. Some years ago he retired from active business.

The cold wave will check rising waters at headquarters and stop further rainfall for a number of days, preventing what promised on Sunday to be a coalbargo rise. As it is, coal and packet men figure there will be about 6 feet below the dam at Pittsburgh. The marks at Old City showed 3 feet Monday morning, and the river above the dam at Pittsburgh was rising quite rapidly. It is considered certain there will not be better than packet water, however, on this rise, so far as Pittsburgh is concerned, but Kanawha coalmen were figuring on getting some coal down to the Point, so as to start it Cincinnatiward on the Pittsburgh swell when it reaches the Point. The opinion prevails that on the breaking up of this, the first real coal spell, good water is a strong probability.

It Will Be the Handsomest Clothing Store In the State.

It is no longer a secret that our landlords have contracted for the improvement of our storerooms.

When done they will favorably compare with the finest in the state—not finer, however, than their contents. This is no longer left for us to say, for good, honest, up-to-date Clothing and Shoes "Go to Hechinger's" is the advice from neighbor to neighbor. There is a distinctiveness in our merchandise that makes it "unique."

None Like Them in the Town.

Now to "Business." We have four weeks left to unload, if not the entire stock at least enough of it to give the workmen sufficient room to get around the place when they begin to tear down, which will be about the 15th of January. We cannot hope to accomplish the unloading without extra inducements to the purchaser. We are going to induce you to help us unload. We know of no plainer way to convince you that we are in earnest than this proposal: Go into any clothing house in or out of town, price their merchandise, then look at and price ours. That will tell the story of the unloading of our stock to make room for the improvements.
